OUR HISTORIC BAR

The centerpiece of the Timbers Restaurant & Bar was commissioned and built on the East Coast in the 1890's and traveled around the Horn on a clipper ship to be placed in the Auburn Opera House, which served as a significant entertainment site during the era. A twenty foot area in the front of the Opera House was reserved for the saloon, where it was hoped the famous entertainers would stop after the show for dramatic performances. They did.

In 1944, after years of hosting popular stage shows, temperance meetings, silent movies and "talkies", the picturesque building with the "most marvelous sounds anyone could ask for" was transformed into the Auburn Bowling Alley. The harsh fate of the glorious structure was sealed by a disastrous fire in 1957.

Prior to the fire, the beautiful oak and mahogany bar that was the center of so many celebrations and controversies, was moved to a beer distributor's warehouse where it gathered dust and fell into a sad state of disrepair. Placer County Municipal Court Judge Jackson Willoughby and his wife Elaine purchased the bar in 1973, had it refurbished and made it the gathering place for their family commemorations.

In 1995, the Willoughbys purchased a home in Sun City Roseville and sold the bar to Del Webb Corporation for use in the community's restaurant and lounge.

The treasured antique has recently been thoroughly restored to maintain its historic authenticity. While Sun City Roseville residents and guests may not meet John Philip Sousa at the rail, they are certain to enjoy the warm, inviting companionship of friends and neighbors while stopping by to visit a revered symbol of the past - here in the Timbers Restaurant & Bar.

CHEERS!
